It is not possible that anyone who has ever succeeded did not face any college essay. In daily life, everyone faces various issues but what makes them unique is how they overcome those issues. Like everyone else, I have also faced a few significant issues. One of the issues that I remember to date is the desire I had to win a gold medal in the inter-school athletic competition and make my parents and school proud. For numerous times, I applied and failed. Previously I had won some awards which gave a lot of hope for my instructors and school management. They supported me as much as they could. My parents could not afford much, yet they still saved to buy training shoes for me. However, trying numerous times and failing made me embarrassed and depressed. It was not merely about winning a gold medal but making the people proud who care for me.

The qualifying rounds were to be held twice. I had already failed once and could not let go the second chance of writing write my essay. I was determined to win the medal for my parents and school at any cost. This resolution reenergized me and I trained very hard without missing any practice. I took every measure to build my stamina and fast running skills. As every day passed, my will to defeat all the rivals grew even stronger. On the day of the second qualifying round, I did my best and was selected. At that time, my performance was recorded as best among all the participants. Not only it gave me confidence but a hope that I may have a chance at winning these competitions.

Fulfilling the dream of my parents and making my school proud meant a lot. However, this also placed a huge burden on my shoulders. As days of the final competition came near, it started to make me anxious. In addition to this, the weather became colder. One day before the competition, I fell ill and had a high fever. After a medical check-up, the doctor told me that my poor health condition was most likely due to excessive training in the cold weather. He suggested that I take a week off before I could resume school. Dropping out of the competitions at this stage was no option for me. The next day, when I arrived at the stadium, I could see my parents, teachers, classmates, and many students from my schools sitting in the spectator's gallery to cheer me up. Despite the high fever, I was determined to do my best. Just before the competition, my coach told me that he was very proud of me, and taking part mattered even more than winning the perfect essay writer. My will to win even strengthened.
